

Tony's life story

Tony was born in Heybridge Basin. He went to the Plume School in Maldon. He played for the school football team and was also a half and one mile runner.

When Tony left school at 15, he became a tree feller.

Tony completed 2 years of National Service in the army. Upon leaving the army he became a bricklayer continuing with this trade for the rest of his working life.

As a hobby, Tony raced pigeons for Maldon Pigeon Society, which he loved doing. He raced his birds as far as Barcelona!

During his life Tony has lived in Brentwood, High Ongar and London, but made his way back to Maldon when he met his wife, Jan.

Tony's love of art began when he was just a boy, and this continued throughout his adult life.

Here is some of Tony's artwork.
